Red blood cells in sports: effects of exercise and

Nov 12, 2013 · Introduction. The primary role of red blood cells is the transport of respiratory gasses. In the lung, oxygen (O 2) diffuses across the alveolar barrier from inspired air into blood, where the majority is bound by hemoglobin (Hb) to form oxy-Hb, a process called oxygenation. Hb is contained in the red blood cells, which, being circulated by the cardiovascular system, deliver O 2 to the

Blood doping - Wikipedia

Blood doping is the practice of boosting the number of red blood cells in the bloodstream in order to enhance athletic performance. Because such blood cells carry oxygen from the lungs to the muscles, a higher concentration in the blood can improve an athlete's aerobic capacity (VO 2 max) and endurance. Blood doping can be achieved by making the body produce more red blood cells itself using
